"We are excited to enter into this agreement with Aspire Capital, a valued shareholder and strong supporter of our scientific platform," said Sanjay S. Shukla, M.D., M.S., President and Chief Executive Officer of aTyr. "This transaction provides an opportunity for aTyr to access capital in an efficient and flexible manner, allowing us to further support the advancement of our clinical program for ATYR1923, including our trials in pulmonary sarcoidosis and COVID-19 severe respiratory complications, and our preclinical programs in Neupilin-2 (NRP2) antibody development and tRNA synthetase biology."

"We are very pleased to expand our investment in aTyr, a company dedicated to developing new therapies for patients who have diseases with a high unmet medical need," said Steven G. Martin, Managing Member of Aspire Capital. "This equity vehicle enhances aTyr's ability to leverage its broad portfolio of intellectual property and provides Aspire Capital the opportunity to invest in an emerging life science company. We look forward to developing a long-term relationship with aTyr and providing ongoing support as they work towards achieving several notable milestones in the remainder of 2020 and throughout the next two and a half years."

"We are impressed with aTyr's thoughtful approach to drug discovery and development, including its NRP2 antibody program and the high-quality engineering of the antibodies," said Michael Burrows, Ph.D., Vice President of Life Sciences at Aspire Capital. "The preclinical data generated in oncology that was presented at the American Association for Cancer Research Annual Meeting in June is a nice first step in demonstrating initial efficacy at blocking NRP2 and showing tumor inhibitory effects. We look forward to subsequent data from this program."

There are no limitations on the use of proceeds, financial or business covenants, or restrictions on future financings.

Additional details regarding the Agreement are set forth in aTyr's Current Report on Form 8-K, filed today with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.
